EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

I've always had an instinctive mistrust of India's caste-based reservation policies. While they were undoubtedly created with good intentions, I can't help but think that in the modern context, they tend to make people more aware of their allegiance to, what should have by now, been an outdated social structure. I realised, however, that the issue is more complex than I had thought it to be when I met Ram Kumar. He's a driver who has survived, by hook and often by crook, in Delhi for many years. The one thing that has stood him in good stead is a card. This is no run-of-the-mill debit or credit card, but one that pro-claims his status as a member of a Scheduled Caste. "With this one card, the whole world opens up for you," he told me. "I have used it to get a government job for myself and my sons admitted to premium government schools. What's more, with this card, they'll get admission into a good Delhi University college afterwards. I'm a happy man, knowing that their future is set."

As I was beginning to wonder at how happy Kumar seemed about reaping the benefits of belonging to a lower caste, he dropped a bomb. "Of course I'm not really a Scheduled Caste," Kumar said. "I was simply able to get this card made about 15 years ago when I was applying for a government job." Apparently, while things have now become more stringent, back then, getting a fake SC card was quite a simple exercise. All Kumar had to do was contact a tout outside the District Court in Mehrauli. The tout had his card made for the princely sum of Rs. 1,500.

"Although, of course, my family back home would be horrified if they came to know that I am happily masquerading as a Scheduled Caste in Delhi," he said. "It's been worth it."

NEWS SPARKLERS

Pony's untrimmed hooves

City of Brussels: Horses need to have their hooves trimmed every few weeks, but Poly, a Shetland pony recently rescued by an animal shelter in Belgium, hasn't had hers trimmed in over 10 years. Now, she may never walk normally again, due to damage to her joints. Animaux en Peril, an animal shelter in Wallonia, Belgium, claims that both Poly and another horse were kept hidden away from public view, in a makeshift shelter located far away from any roads. When the owner finally called them to pick up the animals, they found them living in despicable conditions. But the most horrifying sight was Poly's overgrown hooves, that had twisted into painful spirals, they eventually became thick keratinous spirals that made it impossible for the animal to walk properly. The rescuers used a hand saw to remove them piece by piece until they were of reasonable proportions. The good news is that they are recovering at Animaux en Peril sanctuary, recovering from years of torture.

Plush toys collector

Beijing: They say claw machines are rigged to prevent users from actually catching a prize, but one Chinese man seems to have learned their secret. In just one year, Chen Zhitong has amassed a collection of over 15,000 plush toys from claw machines. Chen's reputation as a claw machine master has now transcended Chinese borders, and he was recently featured in a short documentary by Great Big Story.

Chen Zhitong first played claw machine a couple of years ago, as a way to kill time at the local shopping mall. In just a few months, he got so good at it that he cleared one of the machines of toys, and people started gathering around whenever they saw him play. The 35-year-old IT worker says that there are two types of claw machines – ones that actually requires skill to beat, and others that are programmed and are impossible to beat, no matter how good you are. But, he keeps an eye out for certain factors that influence the chances of successfully catching a toy.

Re-install bus shelters near Kamakshi Hospital

Sir,

This letter is in support of the issues raised by Dr. M.N. Manjunath (SOM dated 20.2.2017). The authorities associated with the mysterious disappearance of bus shelters in front of Kamakshi Hospital and Sigma Hospital owe an explanation to the bus-travelling public they have put to inconvenience.

A few months ago, the ITS enabled shelter in front of Kamakshi Hospital was removed and a no-parking sign board was the only alternative that was offered in its place.

Two months ago, the concrete shelter on the Sigma Hospital side was demolished as well. The concrete structure in front of the hospital had a resting bench as well that had served bus travellers for years.

On either side of the road, the space earmarked for the bus stop has been quickly gobbled up by cars and the no-parking sign serves no purpose. Now, there is no place for bus commuters to wait and they are at the mercy of bus drivers who don't have a definite place to stop the bus. It is a sorry sight to see senior citizens, patients and young schoolchildren run behind the bus each time.

If public transport in Mysuru continues to receive slip-shod treatment like this, it will simply drive people away to personal transport and that can only add more woes to the burgeoning traffic in the city. The bus-travelling public demand an explanation from the authorities involved (KSRTC, Traffic Police, MCC and the hospital authorities) why the bus shelters were removed and an update on the measures being taken to alleviate the hardships faced by us.

This road needs attention

Sir,

The approaching road to Roopanagar on Bogadi main road through SBM Employees Layout is in a very bad condition and requires immediate repairs. The road has not been repaired for the last 3-4 years. With full of potholes, the residents of SBM Layout and Roopanagar find it very difficult to drive on this stretch to reach their workplace and return.

Since the rainy reason is approaching it may lead to more potholes. I request the PWD authorities and concerned officials to look into the problem.

BJP accuses Congress of distributing money

Mysuru, Apr. 2 (SPN&DM)- Even as the by-polls campaign by the Congress and BJP getting bitter by the day, with leaders of both the parties trading charges against each other, the BJP yesterday charged Congress leaders of distributing money to the voters.

After getting information that Congress leaders were distributing money to Nanjangud voters at a Kalyana Mantap on Sayyaj Rao Road, BJP leaders rushed to Puttamma Ramaiah Kalyana Mantap and staged a demonstration.

The BJP leaders, who accused former Minister Satish Jarkiholi and Sunil Bose, son of PWD Minister Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa of bringing Nanjangud constituency voters to the city and distributing money to them, demanded action against the two leaders.

The BJP workers also alleged that Congressmen upon learning of their (BJP workers) visit to the Kalyana Mantap, jumped the walls of the Kalyana Mantap and ran helter-skelter and saved themselves from being arrested by the Police who reportedly arrived minutes later.

BJP workers are seen arguing with the Police demanding action against Congress.

As soon as City Police Commissioner Dr A Subramanyeshwar Rao, DCP H.T. Shekar and other Police Personnel arrived at the spot, the BJP leaders accusing the Congress leaders of indulging in electoral malpractices, demanded action against them, when wordy duel took place between the Police and BJP workers.

Based on a direction by DC D. Randeep, the Police seized 17 two-wheelers, three cars and five tempos parked inside the Kalyana Mantap premises. The Police also seized the Kalyana Mantap and issued a notice to its owner. Also, the authorities served a notice to the owner of Navneet Catering for supplying food.

Meanwhile, the BJP accusing Chief Minister Siddharamaiah of misusing the administrative machinery, alleged that the Congress had bought villagers from Kanuvinahalli and surrounding areas and distributed money and food to them. Accusing the Police of arriving late, the BJP workers alleged that former Minister Satish Jarkiholi was allowed to escape under cover.

The BJP has complained to the State Election Commission seeking action against Congress for distributing money.

Ugrappa has no right to criticise Yeddyurappa: Raghu

Mysuru, Apr. 2 - Claiming that former CM and State BJP President B.S. Yeddyurappa had earned his way to become a tall politician and a former leader, State BJP Slum Morcha President R. Raghu Kautilya has said that Congress MLC V.S. Ugrappa had no right to criticise B.S. Yeddyurappa.

In a press release, Raghu Kautilya accusing Ugrappa of being a political hypocrite, asked him (Ugrappa) to stop ridiculing Yeddyurappa and focus on finding ways for the Siddharamaiah led Congress Government to come out of scams.

Stating that the electorate of Nanjangud and Gundlupet had treated the by-polls as a battle between 'Dharma and Adharma', Raghu said that the by-polls was being fought against the Congress Party's feudalism and dictatorship.

Maintaining that while BJP represented 'Dharma,' and the Congress represented 'Adharma', he said that the BJP had the power to take on the electoral malpractices that the Congress Government would indulge.

Challenging the Congress to face the elections in a free and fair manner, he urged the Congress leaders to stop attacking BJP leaders personally. He warned that the voters will give a fitting reply to Congress, if it continued to indulge in personal attacks.

Election officials seize 50 vehicles belonging to Congress, BJP

Gundlupet, Apr.2(SG&DM)- Election officials yesterday seized more than 50 vehicles belonging to Congress and BJP leaders which were used for Gundlupet by-poll public campaign without permission.

The authorities who checked the vehicles that were following the Chief Minister's car during the Gundlupet by-poll campaign seized the vehicles that did not have permission, according to Chamarajanagar DC B. Ramu.

Cannot release Cauvery water, Karnataka tells TN officials

Bengaluru, Apr. 2 - The State Government yesterday expressed its inability to release 3 tmcft of Cauvery water, sought by an official team from Tamil Nadu, to meet the water requirements of people in the Cauvery basin area.

Karnataka Chief Secretary Subhash Khuntia expressed helplessness on the grounds that there was severe water shortage in the basin. The available water in the four reservoirs of the Cauvery basin could only meet the demand for drinking water in the summer months, he said.

The total storage in the three reservoirs stood at 8.8 tmcft which would meet the drinking water requirements only up to June, explained Khuntia.

A four-member official team from Tamil Nadu headed by its PWD Principal Secretary S.K. Prabhakar held the meeting with Khuntia at Vidhana Soudha to request water for drinking. The meeting lasted for an hour.

Speaking to reporters later, Khuntia said the talks were "cordial" and officials of Tamil Nadu had sought water release on "humanitarian consideration," not on the basis of the Cauvery Tribunal order or the Apex Court direction. "Water crisis is similar in both the States. But their demand can be considered only if it rains here," he said.

He said Tamil Nadu has not requested to release 2,000 cusecs per day, as directed by the Apex Court. At the meeting, the Court order did not figure. "We can somehow manage till June. But if we get rains, then the request for release of water could be considered," he added.

Murder of headmaster near Mandya

Wife, daughter, brother-in-law interrogated

Shashibhushan

Mandya, Apr. 2 (NG&KS) - The Mandya Police, who are investigating the murder case of a Government School headmaster, who was killed in broad daylight at Arechakanahalli near here on Mar. 31 while he was on his way to the school, have interrogated the wife, daughter and brother-in-law of the deceased Headmaster.

The headmaster is Shashibhushan, who was working at Arechakanahalli Government School.

Following the murder, K.M. Doddi Police, had rushed to the spot along with the Dog Squad and Fingerprint experts, inspected the spot and took the Headmaster's wife Shanthamma, daughter and brother-in-law Sunil into their custody soon after the last rites were performed and interrogated them.

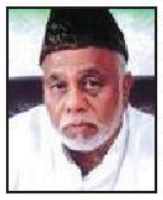
During interrogation, the Police have come to know that Shanthamma was working as a teacher at a school.

It is learnt that the Police have got valuable information that Shashibhushan was killed by 'supari' killers from Mysuru and the Police have launched a hunt to nab the killers in Mysuru. The cops have conducted search in various localities in Mysuru.

The reason for the murder and who killed the Headmaster would be known only after arresting the killers. Meanwhile, Mandya SP Sudheer Kumar Reddy speaking to SOM said that the investigations were going on and the Police have interrogated the family members of the deceased besides saying that the Police would soon crack the case.

It may be recalled that Shashibhushan, on Mar. 31, was stopped by miscreants who were following his bike in a car and murdered him by slitting his throat at Arechakanahalli village and had fled from the spot.

Jaffer Sharief backs RSS Chief Mohan Bhagwat for President



Bengaluru, Apr.2- Going against the party stand, Karnataka Congress leader and former Railway Minister C.K. Jaffer Sharief has backed RSS Chief Mohan Bhagwat for President, saying there "should not be any doubt about his patriotism." He has also written to the Prime Minister backing Bhagwat.

"I personally believe nobody should find fault with Mohan Bhagwat's name being considered as a choice for the Presidentship of our country," Sharief said in a letter addressed to Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

"There are different schools of thoughts in India and it is but natural for such a vast country. Mohan Bhagwat may belong to one school of thought, but there should not be any doubt about his patriotism, love for the people of India, loyalty to the nation," Sharief said in letter to Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

Sharief exhorted all minorities, including Muslims, not to have "any fear or crisis of confidence" in Bhagwat's name being considered for the post.

The Congress has made it clear that it would block any move to make Bhagwat the President. "It is very clear that we do not support RSS ideology," Congress Spokesperson Gaurav Gogoi had said.

BJP's ally in Maharashtra, the Shiv Sena, had earlier this week said that Bhagwat as India's next President was a good idea. "Somebody with a clean image should occupy it. We have heard that Mohan Bhagwat's name is being discussed for President. If India has to be made a Hindu Rashtra, Bhagwat will be a good choice for President," Sena's Sanjay Raut had said.

Bhagwat has however, dismissed speculation that he could run for President elections to be held later this year, saying he considers such talk "entertainment." President Pranab Mukherjee's five-year term ends on July 24 this year.

Kodandaramu, visited Lorry Stands across the city yesterday and sought cooperation from the lorry owners for intensifying the strike as their demands are not met with the lorry owners hinting out intensifying the stir, Devaraja Market Tenants Association President Mahadev said till now there has been no problem in vegetable supplies to the market. But the supplies will be severely hit if the lorry owners decide to stop transportation of essential commodities.

Also, traders and shop owners will be badly affected, if the stir continues for few more days, he said and added that the Government should find a solution to the truckers' problems at the earliest.

Mysuru Industries Association General Secretary Suresh Kumar Jain said that the stir had not impacted the Industrial Sector so far. However, the continuation of the stir for a few more days, would severely affect the working of Industries as they would run out of raw material stocks.

Also, the Industrial Sector have to face huge losses if there is any serious fluctuations in the demand and supply chain, he said.

Jain appealed the Government to find a solution to the truckers' problems in the better interest of Industries, Trade and Commerce.

Kannada Novelist Triveni's house in city to be a Museum

The legendary novelist Triveni (Anasuya Shankar) with her husband Prof. S. N. Shankar.

Mysuru, Apr. 2 (SP&BCT)- Walk near the Chamarajapuram Railway Station Road and ask anyone for the legendary Kannada novelist Triveni's house, they will point at the 200-year-old house that will soon be converted into a museum. The house — Door No. 1152, "Triveni S.N. Shankar" — is located opposite the Tennis Club on Chamarajapuram Railway Station Road.

Triveni occupies a unique position in the Kannada literary scene and her books are still widely read. She is the most favoured among Kannada writers and the novels she wrote in the sixties were revolutionary, unique, gripping and hold good even today. At times, compared to English novelist Jane Austen, not many other writers have come on par with Triveni's writing skills and story lines.

Her style was easy to read. She usually dealt with complex psychological problems in the lives of ordinary people. Her stories were always interesting and were based on human values such as kindness and charity. She wrote about the suffering of the people. Her notable works include 'Sharapanjara', 'Hoovu Hannu', 'Belli Moda', 'Doorada Betta' and 'Hannele Chiguridaga'.

Born as Anasuya at Chamarajapuram on Sept. 1, 1928, under the pen name "Triveni", she authored 21 novels and three collections of short stories and many of her novels were successfully adapted into films. Who can forget Puttanna Kanagal's adaptation of 'Sharapanjara' where the then leading actress Kalpana earned accolades for her portrayal of a mentally challenged person?

Many of Triveni's works have been translated into English, Telugu and Malayalam. Some of her novels have also been turned into serials. Her small stories collection 'Samasyeya Magu' got "Devaraja Bahadur Prize" in 1950. Her novel 'Avala Mane' earned Karnataka Sahitya Academy Award in 1960.

Anasuya was born to B.M. Krishnaswamy and Thangamma couple. She was also called Bhagirathi. She graduated with a gold medal in her Bachelor of Arts degree from Maharani's Arts College in Mysore. She later married an English professor, S. N. Shankar.

Triveni died on July 29, 1963 due to asthma.

In a bid to preserve her memory and give the many Kannada litterateurs a closer glimpse at her life, Triveni's family has decided to transform her house in Chamarajapuram into a museum. According to Triveni's daughter Meera Shankar, who was working for an airline company in the US, the 200-year-old house will be converted into a museum, keeping its heritage structure.

Presently, Meera is settled in Sanjaynagar, Bengaluru and has two children. "I visit Mysuru frequently and my daughter is pursuing Master's in Psychology in the US. I want the museum to be a place where my mother's world is stored," she told Star of Mysore.

The museum will house manuscripts of many of Triveni's stories and novels, her personal diary, photographs, saris and the Siddegowda Gold Medal awarded by the University of Mysore, her watches and dressing table.

"I got an idea of converting my mother's house into a heritage museum after I visited William Shakespeare's house in Henley Street, Stratford-upon-Avon, Warwickshire, England. Even I wanted to keep my mother's legacy alive and enable visitors to relive some of the moments of her life. I also want to keep the literary works of William Shakespeare and O. Henry as they inspired my mother to write," Meera said.

Mentioning that the other aim of the museum is to inspire other women writers, Meera said that Triveni lived in that house in Chamarajapuram and the walls were a witness to her growth as a litterateur before she could turn 35.

"I have even visited the houses of Rashtrakavi Kuvempu (in Shivamogga), Shivarama Karanth (in Puttur), D.R. Bendre (in Dharwad)

Anasuya after she won a gold medal from the University of Mysore and R.K. Narayan (in Mysuru). All of the houses have been converted into museums and I want my mother's house to stand out too," she said.

Triveni was born into a family with rich literary heritage. The renowned playwright and translator B.M. Srikantaiah was her uncle while noted novelists Vaani of Shubamangala-fame and Aryamba Pattabhi, were cousins. "In addition to my mother's memorabilia, I am also thinking of displaying the works and belongings of B.M. Srikantaiah, Vaani and Pattabhi," Meera explained.

Triveni Shankar Trust will be started for the museum purpose and the family has already consulted the Department of Archaeology, Heritage and Museums for technical support. "The Department has assured of support and even the Kannada Sahitya Parishat has evinced keen interest in the museum," Meera added.

'Policy-makers must find methods to utilise Pharma grads in patient care'

Mysuru, Apr.2- The Graduation Day of Sarada Vilas College of Pharmacy (SVCP), Krishnamurthypuram, was held at Sarada Vilas Centenary Hall here on Mar.31. Dr. K.S. Ravindranath, Vice-Chancellor, Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences (RGUHS), Bengaluru, who delivered the Graduation Address, said that a semester-based credit and grading course for Bachelor of Pharmacy and Master of Pharmacy will be introduced from the next academic year.

"As per the UGC guidelines, from the next academic year, we will introduce a semester and grading system for UG and PG courses. Once we start the semester system, there will also be a change in the syllabus," he said.

Stating that there are more than 1,000 pharmacy institutions, including nearly 500 B.Pharma and other Diploma courses, across the country, he said that in Karnataka, there are nearly 55 Pharmacy institutions affiliated to RGUHS. Every year, more than 40,000 pharmacy students graduate across the country, he said and added these graduates are inclined more to industry while a few take up research.

"But it's not the same in Western countries where more get into hospital and community service. Policy-makers and regulators should find methods on how best we can use these pharmacy graduates in patient care," Dr. Ravindranath said.

"Now, we have medicines for almost all diseases including tuberculosis and malaria. Apart from this, 30% of heart-related diseases can be cured through medicines which was not the same earlier. The new Central Government health policy is handy for common people as they have come up with diagnosis and drugs free of cost for poor people at all Primary Health Centres (PHCs). We should see that drugs reach all the people," the VC added.

On the occasion, Dr. Ravindranath handed over graduation certificates to 22 B.Pharma and two M.Pharma students. Seema Mudhol bagged the overall tenth rank in State in First B.Pharm (83.25%). She also bagged nine ranks in other subjects.

Centre plans regular change of note safety features

New Delhi, Apr. 2 - To check fraud, the government plans to change the security features of higher denomination banknotes of Rs. 2,000 and Rs. 500 every 3-4 years in accordance with global standards. The move comes in the wake of recovery of a large amount of fake Indian currency notes in last four months after demonetisation. A close look by the investigators on some of the recently seized fake notes found that at least 11 of the 17 security features in the new Rs. 2,000 notes had been replicated.

These included the transparent area, watermark, Ashoka Pillar emblem, the letters 'Rs. 2000' on the left, the guarantee clause with the Reserve Bank of India Governor's signature and the denomination number in Devanagari on the front, officials said.

The issue was discussed threadbare at a high-level meeting on Thursday attended by senior officials of the ministries of Finance and Home, including Union Home Secretary Rajiv Mehrishi.

Advocating the move, Home Ministry officials said most of the developed countries change security features of their currency notes every 3-4 years and therefore, it is absolutely necessary for India to follow this policy.

Awareness on Disaster Management and Environmental Protection

Mysore, Apr. 2- The Department of Geography, JSS College for Women, Saraswathipuram, had organised a UGC-sponsored one-day National seminar on 'Disaster Management and Environmental Protection' at the College's Navajyothi auditorium on Mar. 28.

Dr. Asima Nusrath, Chairperson, Department of Geography, University of Mysore, inaugurated the seminar. In her inaugural address, she pointed out how Environmental Pollution brings huge problems to the mass by spreading different kinds of new diseases. She explained how unprecedented environmental fluctuations create geographical problems and concomitant hardship to flora and fauna.

She opined that the effects of environmental degradation can be mitigated through controlling the population. She stressed that there is need to create awareness among the people about the environmental protection.

She called upon the teachers and young generation to be prepared and trained with resource material and mode of evaluation in different branches like GIS, GPS, Remote Sensing and Disaster management.

Dr. S. Srikantaswamy, Director, College Development Council, University of Mysore, presided. In his address, he aspired that the seminar will help the participants to know about the significance of Panchabhuthas — which are components of environments.

He deplored that young generations fully involved themselves in studying business management rather than disaster management thus resulting in many environmental problems that remain unsolved.

Dr. H. Gangadhar Bhat, Professor, Department of Marine and Geology, Mangalore University illustrated the problems of environmental disaster by screening Power Point presentations.

He appreciated that our country is scientifically well-developed and every year our scientists are launching remote sensing satellites. He said that construction of concrete structures in an erratic manner degrade the environment. He asserted that depletion of ozone layer is leading to greater catastrophe.

He called upon the audience to save water and energy by making use of renewable sources effectively and extensively.

Indian Open 2017 Badminton Super Series

Sindhu, Marin set up title clash

File Photo

Delhi, Apr. 2- Ace Indian badminton star P.V. Sindhu beat second seed Sung Ji Hyun in a three-game thriller to progress into the final of the India Open 2017 Super series event, here yesterday.

Sindhu prevailed over her South Korean rival by beating her 21-18, 14-21, 21-14 in a titanic clash that went on well over the one hour mark at the Siri Fort auditorium in the capital.

With this victory, Sindhu has set-up a blockbuster clash with top-seed Carolina Marin in the final of the competition.

Marin thrashed Japanese star Akane Yamaguchi 21-16 21-14 in the other semi-final clash yesterday.

Marin and Sindhu played out a thrilling final clash at the Rio Olympics 2016, which was eventually won by the Spaniard. However, Sindhu will look to avenge that loss infront of the home crowd and beat Marin to the super series title this time around.

Coming into the match with a 6-4 head-to-head record, Sindhu displayed nerves of steel as she produced some scintillating low lifts and dominated the nets to see off her opponent.

However, Sindhu started the first game very meekly and gave away an early 3-6 lead to the South Korean. But the Olympics silver medallist got hold of her game and levelled the score at 7-7 in no time.

From there on, it was all about Sindhu as she race to a 15-11 lead in a matter of minutes. The second seed had no answers to Sindhu's booming smashes and cross court net shots.

Sindhu won five back to back points and took home the first game 21-18.

The second game more about Sung Ji who got into cruise control right from the word go. She opened a quick 4-2 lead and tried to capitalise on it with the help of her brilliant base line play.

Sindhu made a strong comeback into the game as she cut the South Korean's lead to 6-5, however, few unforced errors from the world number five helped Sung Yi extend her lead to 14-8.

Sung Yi held her nerves to take the second game 21-14 and force the match into the decider which Sindhu won 21-14.

WORD OF THE DAY

Transpicuous

Pronunciation: tran-SPIK-yuh-wus

Meaning: Clearly seen through or understood.

Origin: Transpicuous is derived from the Latin word transpicere, meaning "to look through." Transpicere, in turn, is a formation that combines trans-, meaning "through," and specere, meaning "to look" or "to see." If you guessed that transpicuous is related to conspicuous, you're correct. It's also possible to see a number of other specere descendants in English, including aspect, circumspect, expect, inspect, perspective, and suspect. Another descendant of specere, and a close synonym of transpicuous, is perspicuous, which means "clear and easy to understand," as in "a perspicuous argument." (Per-, like trans-, means "through.") There's also perspicacious, meaning "keen and observant." (You might say that perspicuous and transpicuous mean "able to be seen through," whereas perspicacious means "able to see through.")

THE ODD WORD

Excess

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Hooray Henry

Meaning: A loud-mouthed but ineffectual upper class fool.

Origin: This sounds very much like a phrase of British origin. But In fact it's an American phrase, coined by Damon Runyon. In a piece for a 1936 edition of Collier's Weekly, Runyon wrote: "He is without doubt strictly a Hoorah Henry, and he is generally figured as nothing but a lob as far as ever doing anything useful in this world is concerned."
